Gilead considers new fire station

By ALISON ALOISIO

Gilead may apply for state grant money to build a new fire station at the intersection of Bog Road and Route 2 -- and, if approved, allow Bethel to store a truck in the building.

Seventeen Gilead voters were told of the proposal at Saturday night's annual Town Meeting. "It would give people on the Bog Road a lower insurance rate, and the response time would be quicker. It would benefit Bethel, too," fire chief Ken Cole told residents.

Gilead currently has a station near the Town Hall, while Bethel's only station is on the common.

In a letter included with the town report, Cole wrote, "There is a very good chance that the Bethel Fire Department will contract (rent) a space in the new garage for one of their trucks to help cover the West Bethel area. There is also a possibility they may co-apply with us for the state grant."

He also said there was a possibility county money might be tapped to help support the station, because Bethel provides fire protection for Mason and Albany.

Term limits axed in Woodstock

By ALISON ALOISIO

Woodstock voted Monday to end term limits for Planning Board members -- and to end Percy Monk's six years on the Board of Selectmen.

Elton Cole defeated Monk -- the current chairman of the board -- in a narrow 27-24 vote at the annual Town Meeting.

Cole had earlier served a term as selectman, from 1990 through 1992. There was no discussion prior to Monday's secret ballot.

There was also no discussion before the vote to end the five-year term limit for Planning Board members.

The limits -- imposed in 1987 when the board was established -- had also been voted upon at the 1993 and 1994 Town Meetings. They survived both earlier votes by narrow margins.

Town manager Vern Maxfield said this year he wanted to see the term limits ended, because the town was losing valuable experience on the board. The selectmen also unanimously recommended the

G'wood finances still in the dark

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Town finances are expected to be the hot topic at Greenwood's annual Town Meeting Saturday -- but it won't be a traditional debate over how much to spend and on what.

Town officials, in fact, will be able to tell voters very little about their town finances: an annual report for 1996 is not yet ready, there is no definitive information yet about how much money remains in various accounts, and the town's financial records have been turned over to state investigators.

Town selectmen have been reluctant to discuss the details of the investigation, which began with an audit of the town's books.

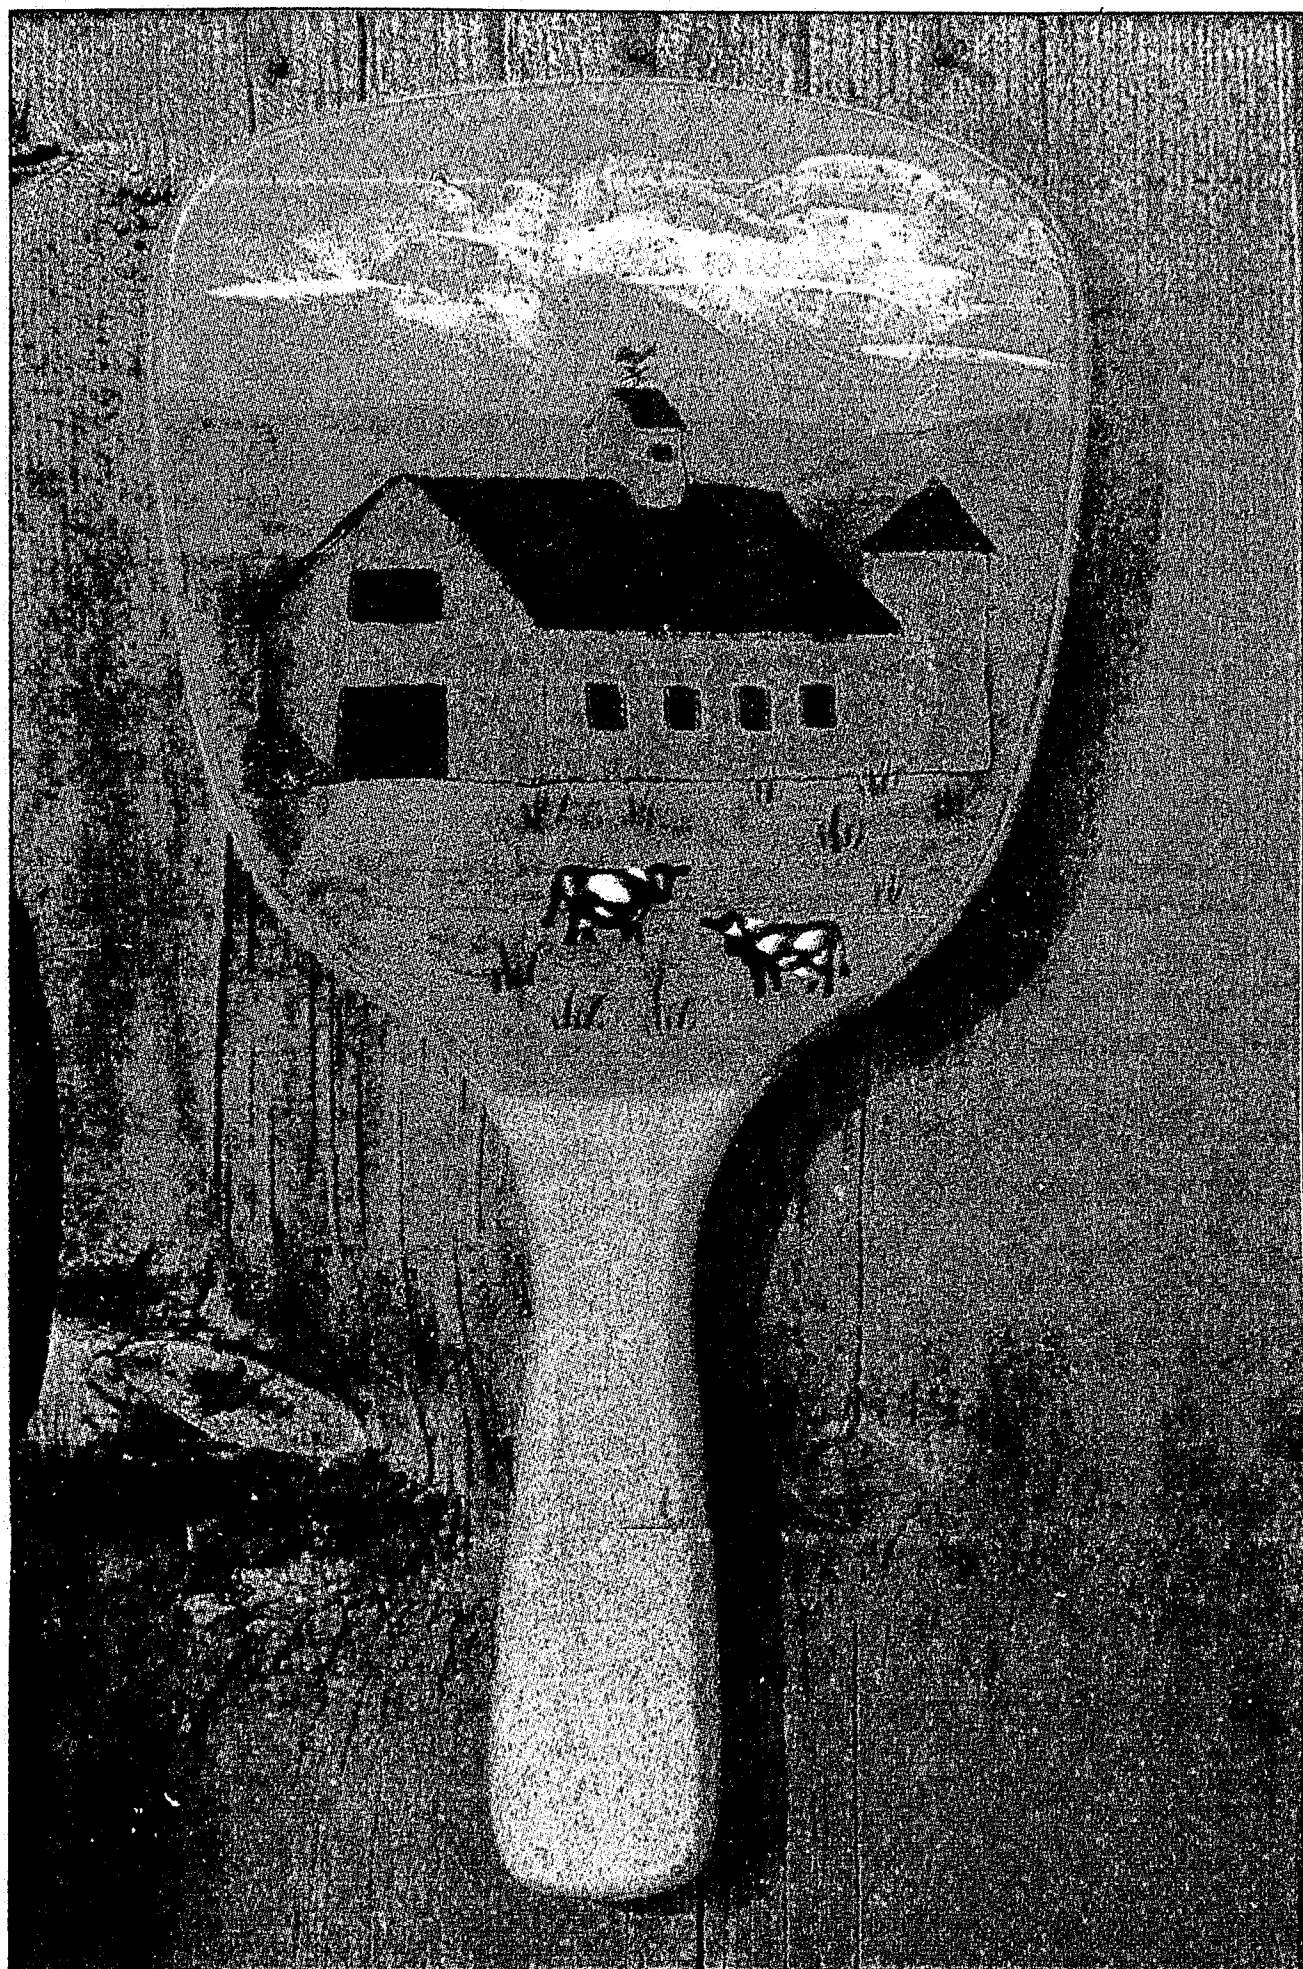

On the advice of the town's attorney they issued the following statement: "The results of an audit have been turned over to the Maine State Police. They are currently investigating the matter. Because of the investigation, no further statement can be made at this time."

The audit in question was undertaken following the departure in December of former Town Man-

Eleanor Brooks discovers late blooming talent for folk art

By ALISON ALOISIO

It took 60 years for her aunt Vera to "dredge" Eleanor Brooks' artistic talent out of her. But as Brooks' friends and others are finding out, it was well worth the wait.

Brooks is a lifelong resident of Bethel, and her aunt, Vera Leighton, grew up here.

"My mother's side of the family were all very creative," Eleanor said. "My grandmother and mother could look at clothes in a Sears Roebuck catalog, and make up their own pattern. I did learn to sew, and knit, but it was nothing I really enjoyed doing. It was drudgery."

Her aunt's hobbies include quilting, crocheting, ceramics and folk art (an art tradition passed from generation to generation, rather than learned formally).

For years Vera had told Eleanor she had artistic talent, and tried to get her to take up folk art.

Finally, last spring, Eleanor went to visit Vera at her home in Oakland. "I spent two days with her. She had me paint a scene on a wooden stool. It was the same one she had painted on a cheese box," Eleanor said.

She found she had a knack for painting -- and better yet, she liked it. She came home and waited impatiently through the summer until she could take painting lessons at Mabel's Crafts in South Paris.

Discovered by others

A few weeks into the class, Eleanor painted a tray that she donated to be raffled off for the Mahoosuc Arts Council. It raised $90.

Then, Clint Shaum, a friend of Sonny Hastings, saw the tray. He wanted to hire her to paint a picture of Hastings' farm on a larger tray.

"I can't do that," I told him. I'm not an artist. Go hire an artist," said Eleanor.

But Shaum prevailed. Using an aerial photo of the farm, Eleanor sketched out a scene. She put in cows, cross-country skiers and family members. Shaum gave the tray to Hastings as a gift.

What did Hastings think? "It's excellent," he said.

Now, said Eleanor, "I paint every evening, sometimes until 12 or 1 o'clock. I lose myself when I'm painting. It's so relaxing."

She paints scenes on wooden recipe boxes, napkin holders, bar stools and hand mirrors. So far, she's done about 40 hand mirrors.

Her ideas for scenes to paint come from all over. "Everywhere I go I see possibilities," she said. "And I notice things I didn't before, like shapes of buildings. I take my camera and take pictures all over town."

Her favorite subjects, she said, are covered bridges and barns.

Eleanor is looking forward to summer at her family's camp on Lake Umbagog. It should open up new subjects for her.

"I want to paddle out in the canoe and sketch out the camps," she said.

Eleanor also plans to offer some of her painted mirrors for sale at Brooks Bros. store.

B. Station has new partner/manager

• Says concept has not changed

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Developer Heinie Merrill is no longer representing Bethel Station in its dealings with the town.

Merrill's firm, the Merrill Company, has also ceased to serve as general manager for the multi-million dollar development.

Since July 1993, when plans for the project were unveiled, Merrill had overseen the day-to-day operations and handled negotiations with town boards and officials, as well as private landowners in the project area.

Those negotiations were lengthy, draining and more-than-occasionally contentious. They also contributed to the slow pace of progress on Bethel Station.

But Merrill said the stresses and strains of trying to do business in

'We wish Heinie well. He taught us a lot.'

REGGIE BROWN
Planning Board Chairman

Bethel were not the reasons behind his departure.

"There were some difficulties in getting approvals," Merrill said, "but I have no regrets with Bethel."

Merrill, who was operated on successfully for kidney cancer in November, said: "My recent health problem and, consequently, my need to relax my workload and a desire to spend more time with my family in the Brunswick area has influenced this decision."

Merrill is to remain an equity partner in Bethel Station Limited Partnership, and he will act as a consultant, focusing on the sales and leasing program.

New management

General management responsibilities for the project have been taken over by a new BSLP partner, David Oppenheim of Chatham, Mass.

Oppenheim, who was born in Portland, has been a builder in Chatham for nearly 25 years.

He has also worked on a number of Cape Cod projects with BSLP partner Grant Wilson. One of those projects was the renovation of the 56-room Wayside Inn, on the town common in Chatham.

He describes the building as "a restored country inn, quite a beautiful place." The restoration, he said, was undertaken "with tremendous

DOES NOT SERVE OUR NEEDS

To the Editor:

Seven years ago my husband and I built our own home in East Bethel because the area offered a sense of natural sanctuary from aspects of modern living that we didn't want intruding on our family life. That dream made reality is now being threatened by impending construction of a lateral natural gas pipeline that will run directly down our road. We have concerns about the safety hazard it presents, about the effect it will have on property values, and about its aesthetic effect upon the roadside environment.

At a recent public hearing in Bethel, concerned residents were told that the proposed lateral pipeline will be constructed to supply natural gas to the paper mills, who in January entered legal contracts with Portland Natural Gas Transmission System (PNGTS), an international consortium of six energy companies. While residents were told that "in the future" access to natural gas would be possible if local distribution centers were built in response to public need, it doesn't figure considering the populations of our rural communities have been shrinking for some years, and efforts to attract and develop business enterprises have been discouraging to say the least. It is unlikely that there will be any new residential projects that would call for natural gas installation. And how practical is it that those who now use oil would convert to natural gas in the future given the expense? There is no public need in the Western Maine region now or in the foreseeable future.

The lateral pipeline project is being propelled by International Paper in Jay, Mead Corporation in Rumford and PNGTS. The contracts entered into have committed PNGTS in the process of obtaining approval from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. The proposal before FERC includes a 242-mile main pipeline that will be constructed alongside an already existing natural gas pipeline that runs from Quebec to Massachusetts, serving large population centers where true public need exists. Glimped now is a complex global perspective of international economic, political, and natural resource competition that totally discounts the rights, concerns, and values of residents who live along the pipeline.

While any opposition to the construction of the pipelines may prove only that individuals are utterly powerless in the face of interests of this magnitude, I must voice my objections and speak against such efforts that exploit the common person and preempt local control in a manner that will not serve the public need of western Maine.

FIRE DEPARTMENT FUNDRAISER

To the Editor:

The Bethel Fire Department will hold a fundraiser for their Fire Academy tuition scholarship fund on Saturday, March 29, from 3 to 9 p.m. at The Backstage in Bethel.

The cost of tuition, which is approximately $750, is normally paid by the interested firemen out of their own pockets. Whenever possible the department tries to offer financial assistance. It is to the benefit of the department, as well as the town, to have as many firefighters as possible complete this rigorous training of firefighting and safety techniques.

Education and training is ongoing in the department and funds for the education budget can always be used. The department's goal for this event is to raise enough for one tuition, $750.

An outdoor pig and turkey roast and indoor country music howl will be held at The Backstage in Bethel on this Saturday of Easter weekend. Doors open at 3 p.m. and food and music will be the fare from 5 to 9 p.m. A $2 donation at the door is requested. A number of area businesses have donated food, tee shirts, advertising, and offers of assistance at the event. They will be listed and thanked at the event and in a follow-up press release. Any others interested in helping offset the costs of the event or helping out, please contact me at 836-2203 or Harry Faulkner, owner of The Backstage at 824-3003.

Cooking will occur on two outdoor, wood-fired barbecue roasters in the parking lot. The whole pig and dozen turkeys will be roasted spit style. Side dishes include locally made rolls and potato salad as well as the Fire Department's famous "Blazing Beans," rumored to have come from a recipe handed down from Mollycokett to fireman Leslie Thurston. Cost per plate will be $10 and yield side-splitting proportions, and all proceeds benefit the scholarship fund.

Entertainment, in the form of a country hoot and howl, will be held on stage indoors. Local area musicians will be performing and recording artist Bill Shimamura will be featured at 6 p.m., accompanied by guitarist Nate Towne.

The theme of the event is "Risking Lives to Save Life." Many thanks to owner Harry Faulkner who challenges you to show you care about firefighter safety education.

REMEMBERING STUART MARTIN

To the Editor:

The death last week of Stuart Martin leaves a deep hole in the ranks of local historians in the area. Stuart was long a "pillar" in the Rumford Historical Society and was a member of the Bethel Historical Society for many years. Older Bethel residents will recall that he once operated a store in the building now occupied by Wild River Realty. He was also widely known as an auctioneer and office holder at the municipal and county level.

It was as a local historian that he will be long remembered by many of us, particularly for his popular and important local book, "New Penacook Folks: Early Rumford with Genealogy of First Families," which he published in 1980 and later reprinted. His interest in local history never seemed to flag and right up to the day he died he continued to research, write and gather materials and information on subjects of interest to him.

Stuart, however, was more than an armchair historian. He was an activist for the cause of history. How well I remember 1975 when he got me involved in the 175th anniversary of Rumford's incorporation. Stuart chaired the event and one of the things he recruited me for was a re-creation of the original Town Meeting with descendants of the original incorporators putting on the event. Since one of my ancestors, John Howe, had been an early settler in Rumford, I portrayed Job Eastman, the justice of the peace, who brought the documents to the meeting and made certain that all necessary legalities were followed. How well I remember that wool suit I had to wear as my costume. It was a particularly hot night and one can only imagine how uncomfortable it was. But we all did our best for Stuart. He led the group through extensive preparations for this event and its final performance was a tribute to his dedication and attention to detail.

Several times during the year Stuart came to do research at the Bethel Historical Society on some topic that interested him. It was always a pleasant time to have him visit and bring us up to date on particular aspects of local historical research. In turn, he invariably was pleased to learn what had come in recently that might be of interest to him. Stuart appeared ageless in his constant desire to learn and infinite curiosity about the past. He always had some delightful and often humorous stories to share and his mind fairly brimmed with details of the past.

Despite all his interest in the past, Stuart was clearly a man of the present and future. I well recall the day he told me that he had a circulatory condition that could under the right conditions cause instant death. I replied that was quite a burden to live with, but he shrugged it off and said something to the effect that it made what time was left to him that much more important. Stuart's ninety years were significant ones. He lived life well and undoubtedly had no regrets when the last curtain call came. His death is a loss to history, but his example is an inspiration to all of us who had the privilege of knowing him.

IS THIS JUST A CONSPIRACY THEORY?

To the Editor:

I wish to thank Mr. Polak (letter to the editor, March 5) for making pre-war German history very vivid. With this background I will make my point very clear, which apparently in my first letter I did not.

First of all, I do not, in any way, minimize, distort, sanitize, or refute anything about the Holocaust. In fact, most people tend to absolve the citizenry of Germany, Poland, and France, of that time, of responsibility for the murder of the Jews. I, however, do not. A government can only do what the general public allows.

Nor do I absolve Americans for the atrocities our government commits.

If revisionist history is your thing I suggest you check out that which is taught in public schools.

I felt that before I responded to Mr. Polak's letter it would be prudent to double check my facts, so I did so at the Bethel Library.

I found that, in actuality, Mr. Polak is correct that Nazi Germany was absolutely not a democracy.

The Weimar Republic was absolutely a constitutional republic, similar to the USA. It had a constitution and a Bill of Rights. "Political power emanates from the people. Men and women could vote at 20. All Germans are equal before the law ... Personal liberty is inviolable ... Each German has the right to express his opinion ... to form associations or societies ... enjoy complete liberty of belief and conscience..."

The Republic had a congress which "supposedly" represented the people just like our congress "supposedly" represents the people. The Nazi Party was quite like our Democratic Party, which campaigned for election to seats in the Reichstag (congress), financed by rich industrialists in return for stamping out labor unions, once in power.

In the March 5, 1933, election the Nazi's received 44 percent of the popular vote, which gave them the largest number of seats in the Reichstag.

After Hitler was appointed by President Hindenberg, March 23, 1933, as chancellor, and was delegated total power by the Reichstag, he killed or jailed most of the opposition parties. An election was held Nov. 12, 1933. Ninety-two percent voted for a single Nazi list for the Reichstag. Even at the Dachau concentration camp 2,154 out of 2,242 inmates voted for the government that incarcerated them.

The Reichstag and the constitution existed intact until the end of the Third Reich. Hitler, however, paid no heed to it. And history marched on as Mr. Polak described.

I think that Mr. Polak would agree that one Holocaust in history is one too many, and there is no excuse for another ever.

The United States of America is also a constitutional republic. The word "democrat" does not appear, in any form, in the Constitution. Remember, "and to the Republic for which it stands." Our republic is different from a democracy in two ways. First, the God-given rights can be violated by no one. Not the government or the majority.

Second, the Constitution clearly states what powers the federal government has and has not. Therefore, any power the government exercises not in the document is unlawful. Conversely, any responsibility enumerated in the document not exercised is also unlawful. The 10th Amendment states, powers not delegated in the document, "are reserved," which means they can never be exercised.

In 1933, as a wannabe dictator named Adolph Hitler came to power in Germany, another wannabe dictator named Franklin Roosevelt came to power in the USA. Like Hitler, he immediately asked Congress for dictatorial power and Congress approved "the War Powers Act." He promptly stole all the legal money in the USA. The act gave Roosevelt, and all subsequent presidents, the power to enact law by executive order. Let's examine some recent executive orders that have become law.

10995 -- Seizure of all communications media.

10997 -- Seizure of all electric power, fuels, and minerals both public and private.

10998 -- Seizure of all food supplies, public and private, and all farms and equipment.

11000 -- Seizure of all American people for work forces under federal supervision, including the splitting up of families.

11001 -- Seizure of all health, education, and welfare facilities.

11002 -- Empowers the postmaster to register all men, women, and children. Today's technology puts us way beyond tattoos.

11004 -- Seizure of all housing and financial authorities, to establish forced relocation of citizens.

11051 -- Provides the Office of Emergency Planning complete authority implement in times of increased international tension or financial crisis.

Sound a little familiar?

Mr. Polak is correct in that our Constitution guarantees our rights and freedoms. But so did the Weimar Constitution.

Let's check it out.

The Constitution guarantees:

Only Gold and Silver may be legal tender. Try to pay a couple of car payments at the bank with a $20 gold piece.

Congress has the power to coin money and regulate the value thereof. The Treasury prints money for the Federal Reserve Bank, which is a private, for profit, mostly foreign-owned bank. The Fed regulates the value of our money.

Congress has the power to raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a term longer than two years. The federal government has continuously supported an army at least since the Civil War.

No capitation, or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census. Check for any census questions on your 1040 when you pay your income taxes directly to the Federal Reserve Bank.

Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. You may freely exercise religion as long as it is not in a publicly owned place. The Supreme Court made that law, which the Constitution prohibits.

The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. Any Gun Control Act, registration, licensing, prohibitions to conceal, or carry in a car is an infringement of the right. The Gun Control Act of 1986, Brady Law, and state laws prohibiting or licensing of automatic weapons are all unconstitutional.

The right of the people to secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated. The daily infringements are too numerous to mention. For a treat everyone should read the new federal blanket warrant which lists in the form items that are considered terrorist equipment, such as guns and ammunition (explosives), chemicals, video and photographic apparatus, radio equipment, computers, copiers, etc. I have all but the copier, I must be a terrorist!

Add to this the power to wire tap, bug, and monitor any and all communication of anyone whether guilty of a crime or not.

Sounds about the same as Nazi Germany to me. We just don't have black-suited, jack-booted thugs running around killing women and children. Oh, true, the FBI, ATF, Federal Marshalls, and DEA do wear black suits and ski masks and they did murder Becky Weaver and her son in cold blood at Ruby Creek.

Well at least the military isn't running wild burning churches and synagogues. Of course the burning of the Davidson Church in Waco, Texas, and the murder of 92 people including 17 children, because their computer nerds had hacked access into the CIA computer network and were aware of the shipment of arms and the importation of cocaine between South America and Arkansas for George Bush, doesn't count does it.

The Constitution is the supreme law of the land, but the people do not know it, state and federal governments do not adhere to it, government officials do not stand by their oaths to it, and the entire judicial system does not uphold it.

Was Nazi Germany all that different, you tell me. Or maybe this is all just a conspiracy theory.

PHC&Co. granted Ch. 11 protection

PORTLAND--P.H. Chadbourne & Co.'s motion for protection under Chapter 11 bankruptcy was granted last week in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Portland. The company filed for protection in early February, citing a drop in lumber prices two years ago and recent problems associated with an expansion. Among the creditors listed as holding the 20 largest unsecured claims against Chadbourne are: Central Maine Power Co.; Farm Credit by assignment from Chadbourne Tree Farms; C.N. Brown Co.; Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Maine; Robert P. Chadbourne; Timothy R. Sawyer; Unemployment Compensation Division, Maine Dept. of Labor; and John A. Gray, Jr. Chadbourne's total liability to creditors holding secured claims is $16,809,263.

Sciacchitano plans tower petition

GREENWOOD--A malfunction that caused the strobe lights on an AT&T tower to flash too brightly at night has been fixed, according to a company spokesman. But Libby Sciacchitano, who lives near the former Telstar system tower, says the lights are still too bright. She and neighbor Jeff Harren complained last month that the white lights shone into their living rooms at night. AT&T tower lights are designed to flash at a lower intensity at night than in the day. Spokesman Rick Brayall said a crew checked the lights and found an equipment malfunction had caused them to stay on the brighter setting all the time. They fixed the problem, and the lights again alternate in intensity, he said. Some of Sciacchitano's neighbors notice a difference in the lights, according to Sciacchitano. But she said she is still not satisfied, and hopes to circulate a petition at the annual Greenwood Town Meeting. The petition will ask for a more acceptable change, such as using red lights at night instead of white.

A smoother ride on Bear River Road?

NEWRY--The Maine Department of Transportation plans to repave 22.87 miles of Route 26 north of Route 2 this summer, Sylvia Gray, Newry administrative assistant, said Tuesday. At Newry's annual Town Meeting earlier this month, some residents who live on the road complained about its poor condition.

Call to fix more of 26

PARIS--The Growth Council of Oxford Hills is encouraging business people to contact state and federal leaders regarding improvements to Route 26. They are encouraged to make the following points: 1) Route 26 is a vital artery for manufacturers, retailers, tourism industry, commuters and residents of Oxford Hills and western Maine. It is also the primary route for Sunday River and Canadians visiting Maine. 2) According to MDOT, 60 percent of the 50-mile stretch of Rt. 26 from Gray to Newry does not meet minimum federal safety standards. 3) Rt. 26 is dangerous due to blind curves, narrow travels, soft or nonexistent shoulders. It also carries a mix of trucks, out-of-state visitors and high traffic levels all four seasons. 4) Communities from Gray to Newry have formed a Rt. 26 Corridor Committee that has reached regional consensus to prioritize projects. 5) The state is now deciding where to invest in transportation infrastructure for the next two years, while Congress is getting ready to debate reauthorization of the Interstate Surface Transportation Efficiency Act. Suggested leaders to contact include: Gov. Angus King (287-3531); MDOT Commissioner John Melrose (287-2551); Sen. Susan Collins (784-6969); Sen. Olympia Snowe (874-0883); Congressman John Baldacci (782-3704).

Newry appointments announced

NEWRY--Selectmen have made appointments to several town boards and committees, according to administrative assistant Sylvia Gray. They include: Planning Board--Norm Davis, Jim Largess, Jim Trefethen, Brian Hanscom, Beth Bean (alternate); Board of Appeals--Owen Wight, Richard Clark, Greg Frazier (alternate); Grange Committee--Nancy Wight, Helen Morton, Pam Conkright, Sylvia Wight, Owen Wight, and Karlene Bachelder.

McLaughlin digs in PARIS--Richard McLaughlin last week refused to leave his late father's house, preventing the McLaughlin Foundation from finalizing its purchase of the garden estate. The garden, planted some 50 years ago by the late Bernard McLaughlin, is considered to be the largest privately held perennial garden on the East Coast. It has been the subject of controversy the past year as the foundation and another group, led by Richard McLaughlin, vied to purchase the property. McLaughlin was informed last week by the attorney for the estate that he has until the end of March to vacate the property. But McLaughlin has indicated he won't leave then, preferring to force a court order to evict him. He has transplanted many of the plants from the garden to property he leases in Greenwood.

Selectmen oppose wildlands bill

RANGELEY--Selectmen last week voted to oppose a bill that seeks to remove 4.5 million acres of Maine woodland from development. Board members said the proposal, known as the wildlands bill, would be bad for area business. Supporters of the bill say Maine's economy needs more emphasis on tourism and service. RESTORE: The Maine Woods representative Jay St. Pierre said the mystique of the Maine woods -- not its clearcuts -- draws people to areas like Rangeley.

Towns have leverage in cable renewal

PORTLAND--Residents who get involved in their town's cable television franchise negotiations process can affect the level and quality of cable service they receive, according to Patrick J. Scully, a municipal attorney with Bernstein, Shur, Sawyer & Nelson. "Cities and towns in Maine and elsewhere now have the ability to refuse to renew their cable contracts if they're not getting the cable services they want, such as public access channels," Scully said. "And as cable companies face ever-increasing competition from direct satellite service, phone companies and other technologies, most cable companies realize that it's in their best interest to listen to the towns and the people who live there. Those towns that have taken renewal negotiations seriously have often achieved big advantages in services. In addition to public access channels and equipment, some towns have been provided with a separate cable network linking schools, libraries and public buildings for transfer of data, video and even telephone service. Many towns are provided free cable service in all school classrooms and other public buildings. As cable companies begin offering Internet access services over high-speed modems, the service can be provided to schools and libraries free of charge."

Hog farm causes stink, says neighbor

RANKIN, III--The way Tom Theesfeld sees it, planning a large-scale hog farm down the road from him without telling anyone just wasn't the neighborly thing to do. Theesfeld says he first found out about the $3-million, 3,200-sow project in January from the driver of a bulldozer he spotted moving dirt in a cornfield near his rural home. "Around here, good neighbors don't do things like that," said Theesfeld. Months later, Theesfeld said he still has problems getting straight answers from the project's developer, Heartland Pork Enterprises, Inc. of Alden, Iowa. The project is going forward despite opposition from officials. "If I called my neighbor and told him not to spread manure tomorrow because my kid's birthday is coming up, we wouldn't have a problem," said Theesfeld, a seed corn salesman. "But who do I call at the mega hog farm to ask them to keep it from stinking?"

From the Bethel Police log:

Michigan man deserted at Big Apple

At 8:30 a.m. on March 18 a Bethel resident called to report a male subject asking for assistance because his friends left him, and he had no way to get back to Michigan. The caller wondered if the man was in any kind of trouble. He was staying at the Norseman Inn. The officer went to the inn and spoke to the man. He said his friends had stopped at the Big Apple on Railroad Street and then drove off, leaving him without any transportation or money. He was asked for identification, which he did not have. He had $2 with him. After the officer finished speaking with him, the man headed east on Route 2. The officer then learned arrangements had been made by another Bethel resident for a room for the man overnight. The officer located him again on Route 2, and took him to the Chapman Inn. The man was expected to contact his father that night.

Saturday, March 22

At 5:50 p.m. a Sheriff's deputy requested assistance at a Greenwood residence for subjects fighting. Two men had reportedly been involved in the fight. Both were very intoxicated and one was reporting an assault. The officer stood by while the deputy investigated the complaint. On arrival of another deputy, the Bethel officer left. One of the subjects was arrested on a warrant.

At 8:43 p.m. police observed a subject at the Bethel Mainway Store. The officer knew of an active warrant for his arrest. After confirming it, the officer arrested Quentin E. Buker, 19, of Bethel, and transported him to the Oxford County Jail. He was booked, processed and incarcerated pending receipt of bail.

Sunday, March 23

At 1:20 p.m. a caller reported a man and wife were at the Rebel Rec diner for breakfast. The caller and his wife reportedly observed the man hit a young child, approximately 2 years old, in the face about 10 times because the child did not eat something. The officer went to the restaurant and spoke with the owners, who had not observed the incident. They said an employee might have seen something. They gave the name of the subject, and the officer called and left a message for the subject to contact him. The Department of Child Protection was contacted and was expected to handle the case. The officer checked the child and found no apparent injuries or bruises.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

Gilead

The state grant is a Community Development Block Grant. It would fund 70 percent of the total project cost.

The proposed site in Gilead is located on property owned by Denny Wilson. Wilson has agreed on a purchase price, Cole said. The price has not been disclosed because the exact acreage of the site has not been determined. Cole also said there are no estimates of the total project cost yet.

The grant application would be made for money available next year. This year, two fire station proposals statewide are expected to be funded.

Cole said he planned to circulate surveys among townspeople to see if there is support for the project. He expects to have a rough cost estimate ready with the surveys.

If residents seem to favor the project, hearings and a special Town Meeting to approve the application would likely be scheduled. Voters at Saturday's meeting listened quietly to the proposal, asking only a couple of routine questions.

Madeline Henley, Bethel town manager, said Monday she has learned Bethel would not be eligible to apply with Gilead because income levels in her town are too high to meet the guidelines.

But she said renting space would be an option, and she is willing to help Gilead in preparing the application.

"We'd like to get a truck out to West Bethel," she said.

The rest of Gilead's Town Meeting went routinely, as voters approved the $195,632 municipal budget as proposed. The figure is up slightly from last year's $187,653, but additional money from excise taxes will be applied to reduce the tax commitment. The tax rate, therefore, should remain steady.

Among the articles approved was a $35,000 loan for paving town roads, and the school budget of $188,155.

All the incumbent town officials whose terms were up were re-elected.

Woodstock

Townspeople were apparently convinced, as the article passed easily.

Voters also approved a $45,000 town revaluation -- but not without asking that they be notified by postcard of the day assessors would come to their homes.

Some said they were simply not comfortable with someone coming onto their property without being told about it. John E. O'Donnell & Associates is expected to do the revaluation.

There was also discussion regarding plans to have the assessments done entirely from the exterior of buildings.

Selectman Stephen Bies said the cost of doing both interior and exterior inspections was significantly higher -- roughly $70 per house compared to $40 for exterior only.

Several voters worried the assessors could not get an accurate idea of a building's worth by looking only at the outside.

But Bies said a valuation is based more on the size of a building than on its interior, and the revaluation was eventually approved. It is scheduled for September.

Voters did make changes to three articles on the 64-article warrant.

They added another $10,000 to the $140,000 proposed to be used from the fund balance to reduce the tax commitment.

Bies said Woodstock is expected to see the greatest state valuation increase among SAD44 towns. Selectmen did not have that information when they recommended the $140,000. He suggested voters add $10,000 to cover any greater increase in Woodstock's share.

Townspeople also voted to set aside the $1,000 recommended to be spent this year for sidewalk repairs. The fund may be increased in future years to eventually allow a more thorough repair of sidewalks.

The recommended $1,000 to repair town cemeteries was doubled. Selectmen had planned minimal repairs, such as to fences surrounding the cemeteries. But several residents said much more work -- including fixing headstones -- was needed.

Other major articles approved included relocating most stump dump operations to the G&W transfer station, and purchasing a new one-ton truck.

The town budget should affect only slightly the current mil rate of $18.82 for every thousand dollars of assessed valuation.

In other elections, Phil Korhonen was elected to the SAD44 School Board, and Marcel Polak was re-elected (both were unopposed).

Lisa Mack was also elected unopposed as a library trustee, while Earlene Rosenberg was re-elected to another trustee seat, defeating Alice Johnson.

Elton Cole moderated the meeting, which lasted about two hours.

Bethel Station

public support."

Oppenheim's first priority here will be to draw on his Chatham experience and try to jump start the long-delayed hotel project.

The partners are currently having plans drawn up for the hotel, he said, and if all goes well construction could be started this summer."

But concept is unchanged

Oppenheim said the change of personnel at Bethel Station does not reflect any major changes in the concept behind the hotel (which developers refer to as the "Inn"), or the rest of the development.

Any changes from the plans initially presented to the town, he said, will be only the "normal minor changes that occur when you draw up a particular building -- the concept is not changed."

The hotel itself is expected to be about 100 rooms, he said. "I think it's safe to say we won't be seeing anything larger than what was proposed. The hotel if anything might be slightly smaller."

As for the projections for buildout beyond the hotel, "it will be easier to give a further timetable for any further development when we know when the hotel's going. That's going to be the cornerstone," he said.

Oppenheim said he does not plan to relocate to Bethel, but will commute from Chatham, where he lives with his wife and daughter.

"Elaine (Reindeau, Bethel Station office manager) is perfectly capable -- and probably more capable -- of handling a lot of the day-to-day stuff and dealing with the buildings that are there. She certainly knows everybody who we work with in Bethel: the contractors, town officials and others. Plus Heinie's still there. He's still a partner."

Oppenheim said he hoped to build on the base Merrill has established in Bethel: "Heinie's done a tremendous job in bringing the infrastructure to fruition. I look forward to working with him to get Bethel Station built the way we all want."

Noting that Chatham was about the same size as Bethel, Oppenheim said he hoped working here would also be much the same: "You know everybody, you see them for breakfast and then you're arguing with them at night."

Reggie Brown, chairman of the Bethel Planning Board, said his board "looks forward to meeting and working with the new management at Bethel Station. And we wish Heinie well. He taught us a lot."

Greenwood

ager Liz Lavalette, who had begun work in April.

Lavalette was the first manager to be hired after Greenwood voters agreed to switch to a town manager form of government. But she resigned after being indicted in Massachusetts for stealing $58,000 from the town of West Stockbridge, where she had served in a variety of town office positions.

The town books in Greenwood had apparently been in good order when Lavalette arrived.

First selectman Marie Bartlett said a routine "mini-audit" had been conducted in April following the resignation of town clerk Phyllis Coolidge (whose job had been eliminated when voters changed the form of town government). That audit, Bartlett said, revealed "no problems whatsoever."

But the more extensive audit undertaken following Lavalette's departure turned up what at first appeared to be bookkeeping errors (debits and credits applied to the wrong accounts) for the period of April through December 1996.

Recently, however, (Bartlett said she could not say exactly when) the auditor brought a number of further questions to the attention of the selectmen, who in turn contacted the town's attorney, who in turn contacted the state Attorney General's Office, who in turn called in the State Police.

With the matter under investigation, voters are unlikely to learn more until at least mid-April, by which time selectmen hope to be able to issue a complete annual report.

More routine matters

But business in town must go on, and the selectmen are recommending a municipal budget for 1997 of $426,458, up $38,413 from this year's budget of $388,045.

The major increases called for are in the area of road maintenance and the Fire Department reserve account.

On roads, the selectmen are recommending that voters allocate an additional $15,000 to straighten and level a dangerous elbow (Point Hill) on the Greenwood Road, and another $17,000 to rebuild a particularly bumpy section of the same road near Rowe Hill Road.

Selectmen are also recommending that voters set aside $10,000 for future Fire Department equipment needs.

Bartlett said that a number of town accounts have been reorganized in order to make it easier for voters to see where their money is going. She said she hoped to review those changes at the Town Meeting.

The town's county taxes are expected to change little this year, Bartlett said, and the school assessment is not expected to increase greatly.

If voters approve the municipal budget as recommended by the selectmen, and the school and county taxes come in as projected, then the town's mil rate (currently $16.40 per thousand dollars of assessed valuation) is expected to increase by 20 to 40 cents, Bartlett said.

The term of selectman Harry Swan expires this year, and he is expected to seek re-election to another three-year term.

Two seats will be open on the SAD44 Board of Directors, one for three years, one for a single year.

Saturday's meeting will be held at the Town Hall in Locke Mills and will begin at 10 a.m.

Eleanor

Her husband, Don, takes the credit for her painting ability. "He said he let me paint walls, woodwork and clapboards to develop my painting skills," said Eleanor.

Asked if she now regrets she didn't start painting at an earlier age, Eleanor said raising four children would have put a serious crimp in any painting schedule.

"I think now is the right time," she said. "Thirty years ago I would have been frustrated that I didn't have enough time."

Besides, Eleanor said, it's all relative. "Grandma Moses didn't start painting til she was 80," she said. "I feel I got a head start."

Bethel tryouts

Bethel Recreation Board's annual tryouts for Bethel baseball teams will be held Saturday, March 29 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Gould Academy field house. Boys and girls will be evaluated in a number of skills and will be placed on teams based on age and ability. Everyone will be placed on a team.

The schedule will be: 6-8 year olds, 9 to 10 a.m.; 9-10 year olds, 9:30 to 11 a.m.; 11-12 year olds, 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Softball players, Babe Ruth players, and T-ball players need not attend these tryouts. Everyone, however, must register by March 30. Registration forms may be picked up at Crescent Park School, Telstar Middle School, the town office or at tryout day. Forms may be turned in to the town office or to the Recreation Board on tryout day. The registration fee is $5 per player or $10 per family for Bethel residents; $10 per player or $20 per family for nonresidents. A birth certificate copy is also required for anyone in Rookie, Minor, Bambino, or Babe Ruth League who does not already have one on file. A late fee of $5 per player will be charged for registrations after March 29 and no registrations can be accepted after April 21, as rosters need to be filed with the league.

Baseball team levels are: T-Ball, age 5-8; Rookie, age 7-9; Minor, age 6-12; Bambino, age 6-12; Babe Ruth, age 13-15. Ages are determined as of Aug. 1, 1997. Minor and Major teams are usually older, experienced players but league rules allow especially talented younger players to apply to play at these levels.

Softball players ages 8-18 may register as there are several levels of teams available. We are hoping to have enough players to host at least one team in the Oxford League.

Girls are encouraged to get their friends together and sign up. Fees will be returned if there are not enough players and someone doesn't choose to play baseball.

Parents and friends who are interested in coaching, are asked to contact Chris Olson (824-3279). Also needed are sponsors for T-ball T-shirts. Businesses interested in putting their logo on 15 little backs, should contact Jan Whitworth at 836-2901.

Friends of Telstar Middle School are having a bottle drive that day on March 30. Donations should be brought to the field house.

Bethel

by Phyllis Dock
Philip Daye enjoyed his 98th birthday on Saint Patrick's Day at a gathering of family members at the home of his daughter, "Pat" Daye. He received a phone call from Belgium, one from grandsons Bruce and Dwayne Phillips in San Francisco Calif., and a call from his daughter Audrey in Bath. He also had a delivery of flowers. He will be staying in Bethel for two weeks.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet at the Grange Hall on Thursday, April 3. Pal Elwell will speak on Medicare. The dinner will be put on by the Daughters of Union Veterans.

The Woodstock Historical Society now has a particularly fine glass collection. The society's antiques in general are very nice and most people enjoy them. The society encourages you to study your genealogy. You might find out very interesting things about your family. The society has many rare papers and documents in its notebooks and files. Many visitors spend hours looking at them. The society explores our past, building a basis for the future. It gleams information we can often use in our daily lives from the concepts and values of earlier generations. Young and old alike can learn important lessons from this process.

The light at Andrews Corner has been replaced. It was a dark place and we are glad to have it installed by CMP this week.

This week they are having old game shows on Primstar. I've tried to watch them as much as possible as I have always enjoyed game shows. On one old Price Is Right show someone won a new car for $2,200. That will tell you how old the show was. It was taped in 1973. Hope times change.

Emery Ryerson is now a patient at the Veteran's Home in South Paris. He will be there for a time while he recuperates. I'm sure he'd enjoy visitors or receiving cards.

I visited my daughter, Kellie Hart, at REACH office where she is now working. She really enjoys her work there.

Becky Boyce was out working her horse this week. It was such a nice day and I'm sure the horse enjoyed the exercise.

Heath Poland has returned to his subjects at the college he attends in Illinois.

Those making the honor roll from this area are Sheri Curley, Kristina Koskela, Daniel Morgan and Caitlin Gallagher. Keep up the good work. Those from this area that made the National Honor Society are: Jeff Chandler and Emily Phillips.

Lacy Phillips has qualified for the New England Regional YMCA swim competition held at Brown University, Providence, R.I. Lacy is the daughter of Brad and Carl Phillips of South Woodstock. Congratulations, Lacy!

Larry Billings, curator of Woodstock History Society, reports that the museum has upgraded its glass collection recently. It is now especially good. The society features Woodstock memorabilia, antiques, art and other treasures in its museum on Main Street in Bryant Pond village. You may see the exhibits at meetings during the winter and on Saturday afternoons during summers.

West Bethel

Michael O'Neil tosses a mean salad down at Rick's Deli in Bethel. Mike lives in Rumford Point and wishes he could have his name in the newspaper.

During the Blizzard of '97 in mid-February six Silver Lace Wyandottes were picked up from the roadside in West Bethel. It appears they were left on the street to die. One of the hens didn't survive, but the rest did and are happily clucking and pecking and laying eggs again.

Speaking of birds, if robins prefer worms what do they eat in mid-March in the Northeast? Gerry Luxton called to tell me she had a robin around her home March 15th. He was eating apples from her flowering crab tree.

Rodney and Carol Jordan saw huge flocks of robins migrating north during their recent trip through North Carolina. While in Virginia they stayed with their niece, Nancy Brown.

Our family gathered to support my Auntie Musa and daughters Laurie, Nancy and Becky during their time of mourning for Edwin. I don't remember a time when Uncle Ed was not in my life. The day my parents brought me home from the hospital they stopped in Bethel to introduce me (at three days old) to my cousins and Musa and Edwin. I feel fortunate to be part of such a good family and will hold my memories closely and carefully to my heart.

There are only six more days to ride the ski train. If you haven't traveled the Bethel line it's not too late. I've been told by many what a comfortable trip it is to go to Portland on the rail. You get to see a whole new view of the counties, towns, lakes and rivers along the line. The train has a phone and will call you a taxi or shuttle to take you to a hotel for the night. You need to rise plenty early in the morn to get to Presumpscot Street at 6:20 to board the train for the ride back to Bethel. Stop by Friday or Saturday to buy your ticket and bring the whole gang.

The ice is still piled up and jammed in the Wild River. We drove down Route 113 to the gate and were amazed at the height of the ice jam, probably 20 feet in places. And, "flatlanders" wonder what we do for entertainment here in Maine. The moose on Sparrowhawk Mountain are moving around. One was seen on the road this past week.

Spring must surely be here. The moose are coming down from the mountain tops and the robins are back from the south.

Did you know that an MRI scanner has a massive electromagnet able to create a magnetic field up to about 60,000 times that of the earth's magnetic field?

I hope everyone has seen Hale-Bopp, the comet. You can see it in the northwest sky about 7 p.m.

It is a sight to see, even with the naked eye. You can see it until the end of April.

Tom Sweetser, Dick Tyler and Ken Grover joined Neil Olson for an evening of cards recently.

Leslie Noyes has been in the hospital recently with a bad case of bronchitis. He is now in Rumford Community Home. He hopes to be home soon.

Ruth Bethel will celebrate a birthday on April 12.

Ryan Bernier and Sheila McCall visited Andrew and Flossie Bernier on March 23. Sheila has been reassigned to a base in North Carolina.

Alder River Grange will try for a meeting on March 28 at the hall at 7:30 p.m., weather permitting.

I have found out that the Maine P.U.C. and the towns of Wells, Eliot and Jay have filed an intervenor with the Federal Regulatory Commission in Washington, D.C.

Also, since none of us who live on the East Bethel Road and the Middle Intervale Road did not know about the previous meetings that FRC held in the state, we can write to FRC

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
The article I'm writing today is from notes I wrote in my diary at this time in spring eight years ago. Here it is.

On Monday afternoon I roamed the forest beyond Big Pond. I crossed the pond and I noticed in the snow beneath my feet the tracks of small things that had crawled there, the low bushes or plants that grew in the shadows, the tall weeds that sheltered them in summer, the old trees towering above, their seedlings, brush that had to be pushed aside, the clouds, the sky and the changing light. I came to the Cadd Whitman Brook, crossed and wandered on. I could hear the rustling of the trees that still held their dry leaves.

Coming to a small stream somewhat lost, but reveling in the cold, white stillness, I stopped to look for the best place to cross. Then just beyond there was a small opening, water clear and tiny bridges of ice arranged with hanging icicles and scattering frost dust as wheels of light hit them. The water was so clear that when I looked down at the drowned rocks I saw that they were covered with moss-fur, long enough in places to drift slightly. Now and then leaves having come loose from somewhere rushed, circled, and went swooping down adding their buff and brown to the water which disappeared so soon beneath the blanket of white.

I paused under an arch here, a maple, which had lowered its head to lie lodged on a branch of a neighboring tree.

Now going up a hill which rose beyond, I was almost lost among beeches and birches. These lofty sentinels, snow pillowed, added grace and beauty to their place of silent vigil. I rested against a rock to gather all the magic of the scene.

We live in a wonderful world that is full of beauty and charm and adventure.

When I came back to the pond I looked longingly toward the falls far down the pond, but my better judgment told me "not today." So home I went.

Rena Curtis had several callers over the weekend; her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

I am feeling much better this week after my sessions with the dentists. I never experienced a cracked tooth before.

I attended the party for Caili Inman last Sunday evening.

Ann Holt was ill over the weekend.

David was at the Holt Farm on Sunday, but Sally and Mary spent the day with Sally's mother at Ledgeview.

I attended the Retired Teachers meeting with Lettie Brooks. I felt right at home for the slides and topic was on the "One Room Rural Schools" of Maine.

I have been told that little Baylee Dawn, daughter of Laurie Rolfe and Chris Hatstat had her first birthday party on March 7. This took place at Evergreen Valley in the large fireplace room with members of her family and a few friends. She had "Happy Birthday" cake and ice cream, presents and all that good stuff. Happy Birthday, Baylee, and many more.

Wednesday, Carolyn Heino and Geneva Tripp called on their aunt, Josephine McAllister, at Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris. They also visited Grace Nelson at Bridgton Health Care Center and found them both to be getting along quite nicely.

John Grover Jr. is at home now after being in Stephens Memorial Hospital and having surgery.

Fred Fox and friends have gone to Arizona for a week's vacation. Eight members of the East Stoneham Church met at the home of Mary Grover on March 13 with co-president Kathy Adams opening the meeting at 7:15 p.m. Many matters of the church were discussed, which included the Easter morning breakfast, the problems with the septic system and water pump, coffee after church and public supper planning meeting to take place soon. What can we do to get people to come to Sunday services? It only takes an hour and it doesn't hurt. When we get over these coughs and colds, let's try it (10 to 11 a.m.). Easter Sunrise service will be held on March 30 at the parsonage at 6 a.m., with breakfast at North Waterford Church afterward.

On March 15, five boys from Boy Scout Troop 115 and one Webelos from Pack 155 went to Horseshoe Pond and camped out in snowshelters which they dug out and made themselves. This was quite an art in itself. This was done under the direction of Dale Nelson and Harry Taylor. The boys had been looking forward to this outdoor activity for quite some time, and finally the weather cooperated. It was cold and windy, but they cooked some nice, hot beef stew. They did have a nice, warm camp to go in, but they didn't need to. They were snug and warm in their sleeping bags in their snowcaves. One even had a candle on a shelf. What fun.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Mills

Once again this community is saddened by the death of one of its own, Rick Roy. He certainly fought hard to overcome many health problems and was an inspiration to all. He and Ann were neighbors of mine for many years and one could not ask for better ones. We offer Ann and the rest of his family our sincerest sympathy.

I had a nice talk with Mary Lou Berry after writing about the restaurant. I was glad she was able to add and correct parts of the happenings that I found myself fuzzy about. The parts I was clearest on were the ones I heard from my mother, and the ones I experienced myself were the fuzziest. I am not the most observant person in the world. I would not make a good witness.

I meant to say something in the original article about the snowboats, but I couldn't remember enough about them. Ruth Cummings talked with several people after she had put in her query and she said she was told the restaurant was named Star because of the car dealership there. I know there were several pictures of my Uncle Henry in front of these vehicles. They had skis on front and almost-like-tractor wheels behind.

I also learned the building was originally used to store caskets. Since back then most funerals were held in the home, there were no funeral parlors as such and the caskets had to be stored. I don't know if that building was built for that purpose or not, but so far that's the extent to which anyone can remember. As I say, I don't have a very good memory or recall on something.

Now Andy can remember so much of his childhood in Bethel it puts me to shame. He can remember what buildings were where and describes the people, even down to Suzy Edwards doing her shopping with basket over her arm. Maybe we should start pooling our remembrances so much gets lost over the years.

Don't forget the Town Meeting and the dinner the Auxiliary of the Fire Department puts on that day. The meeting starts at 10 a.m. at the Town Hall on March 29.

I talked with my son Ralph last evening and he tells me he plans to fly to Houston, Texas, the 22nd of April to spend a week with an old friend and her family. Being a mother, I am starting to be uneasy already. But better flying than driving I figure.

I spent Thursday afternoon at Debbie Brown's house getting my hair done and manning the phone while Debbie took Allan to the Health Center to be treated for a migraine. They certainly are terrible things to have. Anyway, I came home with another female guppy, as I'd lost one of mine. I now have four adults and 12 babies in my little tank. They certainly are prolific!

Bill and Sylvia Wight spent several days snowmobiling at the Pittston Farm above Millinocket recently. Stephen and David Wight of Old town visited with their parents the week of Melissa Strauss' birthday to help her celebrate her fourth one. Melissa is Bill and Sylvia's grandchild.

Call to Worship was held at Owen and Sue Wight's residence on Sunday, March 16, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom officiating and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Day was: "Preparation," from Psalm 91:10: "There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling." Gil Seely did a special, "The Little Church in the Valley," a tribute to the Newry Community Church.

Sunrise Service will be held at Mother Walker Falls at 7 a.m. on Easter morning, with breakfast later at Owen and Sue Wight's home. Everyone welcome. The regular morning service will be held at the church at 9 a.m. If the weather is "iffy," meet at the house.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seely and Eleanor Davis went bowling at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. It was nice to see that Eleanor was well enough to enjoy a couple of strings, as she has been ill for quite a while. We hope she can come again. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles beating Gil by four pins, but Gil was high on the triples beating Karlene by 10 pins. Karlene had one spare and Gil had two strikes. They went to lunch and did some shopping after bowling.

Happy 13th Birthday, Katie Wight, on March 19. She had a family and friends birthday party at her home on March 22.

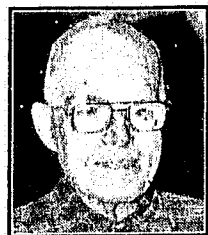

Happy 16th Birthday Mandy Berry, on March 23. She had a family and friends birthday party on Sunday.

John and Nancy Wight went to the benefit supper for Nellie Halstat in Waterford. There was a great turnout.

Gil Seely took Karlene Bachelder and Nancy Wight to Mother's Restaurant Saturday. They had a delicious lunch.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy friends. This is Tuesday morning, the 18th day of March and a beautiful day it is here on High Street.

Peggy had to go down street early last Tuesday morning to have a fast test at her doctor's. Then she had to go back later to meet with the doctor. I stayed home and cleaned the snow from some of the roofs in the forenoon and did more in the afternoon.

Wednesday was Peggy's birthday and we went to West Bethel to have lunch with her daughter, Loretta Merrill and family. Rusty was home visiting and Samantha Murch and her two daughters, Joanna and Jesse, were also visiting. Jimmy Merrill came in the afternoon after he had finished his day's work. We enjoyed lunch very much, also the visit with members of the family. Peggy fared quite well with cards and presents for her birthday. Visitors all departed for home by 3 p.m. to give Loretta a chance to rest, as a bad cold kept her from feeling very well.

I wonder how many of you good people out there remember Gwendolin Holt that used to live a little way beyond Newry Corner off the road to Hanover? This was also her birthday, and she has reached the young age of 97 years young.

Gwendolin is at Norway Convalescent Home and does enjoy visitors.

The weather report convinced us to go for groceries and other errands on Thursday, instead of waiting until Friday. Besides our regular routine, they were having a sale at the $1 store, so we toured the store and did find some bargains that we could make good use of.

Bertha Benoit called on us Thursday evening to return some tapes that Peggy had loaned to her and to bring some of her own that she thought we might enjoy watching.

Bertha called again Friday morning with birthday presents for Peggy. She had gotten mixed up on the right day.

It was quite nice Saturday morning, and after washing our breakfast dishes we rigged up and went out to clear away the snow that had fallen through the night. Nephew David Yates was at home and he plowed the most of our front yard for us. It didn't take us a great while to clean out the snow, and after getting back inside Peggy made a batch of oatmeal bread, also fudge, as well as preparing dinner.

Saturday evening, Peggy and Doc Merrill went dancing at Staples Hall in Welchville. I understand that there will be another dance there on March 29.

One of Peggy's birthday presents was a gift certificate to dine at the Old Mill Tavern in Harrison, where her grandson Rusty Merrill has worked as a waiter. Since the weather was quite nice Sunday, Peggy decided to use her gift that day and took me along to share it with her. We settled for brunch, which included a nice variety of food, and we ate heartily.

Peggy had thought that we'd stop at the new veteran's home on our way home to listen to the Richard Feyl Orchestra entertain, but she was very tired so we came right home instead.

Kathleen Holden was a visitor at the Lovejoy Home one day last week.

Peggy and I wish Robert Day the best of luck and a speedy recovery from the surgery that he will soon be having.

The next meeting of Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond will start at 7 p.m. on April 7 and will be Youth Night. There will be refreshments after the meeting.

CWA Night at West Paris Grange will be held April 17, preceded by a supper.

The Spring Craft, White Elephant and Food Sale at West Paris Grange will take place on May 10 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. To reserve table space, contact Peggy Blake at 674-3872.

Peggy and I wish to extend our sympathy to the family of Ivan Garey. Ivan and family were close neighbors when we lived on the Sunday River Road in Bethel. We have seen Ivan at the Veteran's Home when we were visiting there.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Three Korean War veterans provided their memories of that conflict at the March monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held on Thursday evening. Richard Littlefield, Herbert Dunham, and Richard Valentine described their experiences in the war. Littlefield and Dunham were fighting on land while Valentine flew planes that transported the wounded to hospitals in Japan. All agreed that the geography of Korea was a tough place to carry on a war, with its mountains and steep landscape.

They also remembered how cold it was there during the winter. It was quite a contrast to Vietnam where the war was waged in the jungle and the 46,079 killed were spread over a much longer period of time (1961-1975). In Korea, most of the deaths happened in the first year of the war (33,629) with (20,617) dead from other causes. It was fought with equipment left from World War II while Vietnam had state-of-the-art technology for the time.

Korea is often referred to as the "forgotten war" since it was only recently that the veterans from that conflict received a monument in the nation's capital. Korea is also called the "younger brother's war" since it occurred so soon after World War II that in many cases men who had served in the second World War had younger male siblings who were not old enough to serve in the "big one" but came of age after 1950 just in time for service.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe provided an overview of the war; Richard Valentine showed some slides of his time in Korea mostly from the air; and Herbert Dunham brought several examples of propaganda that he picked up in Korea. Director Howe also reported on the coverage of the war in the Bethel Citizen, observing that there were few mentions of the conflict for the years 1950 through 1953. There were numerous items reflecting upon Cold War readiness and anti-communism, but little direct reporting.

On March 1, 1951, there appeared in the Citizen an article on Harry Swanson, then age 36, who was serving as the barber in Korea for Maj. Gen. Edmond L. Almont, X Corps Commander. Earlier Swanson, a former Locke Mills resident, who married a Locke Mills native, had been the barber for Douglas MacArthur in occupied Japan.

Later issues documented the fact that Lt. Col. Vincent M. Witter of Bethel had received his Second Oak Leaf Cluster, that Herbert Dunham of Locke Mills had been wounded in Korea, that Sigurd Olson of Bethel was a POW, and that former Bethel resident Sgt. Joseph Coulombe of Berlin, N.H., had been killed. In 1952, there was a large area American Legion meeting in Bryant Pond, where Maj. Gen. Frank E. Lowe of Harrison, President Truman's representative in Korea, gave an illustrated talk on the war.

By 1952, American public opinion was overwhelmingly opposed to continued involvement in the Korea War. The Citizen published a cartoon with a large cross and lots of small ones around it with the caption, "How Many More?" which seemed to sum up American sentiment at the time.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Walter Hatch asked for a moment of silence in memory of Sumner Burgess, who was chairman of the society's Building Committee and a very active volunteer.

He announced that the next meeting would be held on April 3 and be another oral history night with a panel discussing their memories of Frank Edward Hansom.

The Risk of Breast Cancer

by Susan M. Lessard, ARNP
Family Nurse Practitioner, Mountain Health Services

Breast cancer should be a concern for all women. The biggest risk factor, whether or not one has a family history, is age. As we age, the risk of breast cancer increases immensely. All women must be considered at risk for breast cancer and control must depend on secondary prevention. This includes breast self exam, clinical breast exam and mammography.

With today's technology, there is something we can do to screen for breast cancer. According to the American Cancer Society, every woman should have a baseline mammography between the ages of 35 and 40, every two years between the ages of 40 and 50, and yearly after age 50. Women with other risk factors may need a mammography more often.

Aside from age, the next strongest risk factor is a family history of breast cancer in a mother or sister. The following are very modest risk factors: never having children, first pregnancy after 30 years of age, starting menstruation before 12 years of age, menopause after 50 years of age, postmenopausal obesity, high socioeconomic status, and personal history of ovarian or endometrial cancer. A majority of women will have one or more risk factors for breast cancer. However, most risks are at such a low level that they only partly explain the high frequency of breast cancer.

Breast cancer is the most common type of cancer among women in the United States. It is estimated that 182,000 new cases of breast cancer in women will have been diagnosed during 1995. The probability of developing breast cancer in our lifetime (birth to age 85+) is 1 in 8. The chance of breast cancer increases sharply after age 50 and continues to increase as we age.

Mammography is a x-ray of the breast that can detect a lump so small that it cannot be felt. There are a very small percent of lumps that are not seen on mammography. This is why, in addition to having a mammography, women should have a clinical breast exam performed by their health care provider yearly.

All women can be taught how to perform breast self exam. Most lumps are found by women themselves. This may be because women are not having clinical breast exams and mammograms done. Remember that a lump in a breast is not always cancerous, but it should be evaluated by a health care professional.

Along with having a clinical breast exam performed by their health care provider, all women should ask their health care provider to teach them breast self exam. Early detection remains the only proven means of reducing breast cancer mortality, because methods of preventing the disease are still not known. The most important aspect of early detection is having a mammography as recommended by the American Cancer Society and a woman's health care provider.

Study of Women's Health Issues Focuses on Disease Prevention

HEALTH INITIATIVE

(NU) - Women 50 and over currently have an opportunity to participate in one of the largest studies on women's health ever conducted in the United States.

Called the Women's Health Initiative, the study is focusing on strategies to prevent heart disease, breast and colorectal cancer, and osteoporosis in women. Strategies being studied include hormone replacement therapy, low-fat dietary changes, and calcium and vitamin D supplementation.

Troubling Numbers

There are startling statistics about women and health:

- About 90 percent of all heart disease deaths among women occur after menopause.
- About 39 percent of women who have heart attacks die within one year, compared to 31 percent of men. That's because heart disease in women often goes undetected and untreated until it is severe.
- One in eight women can expect to develop breast cancer.
- In 1990, nearly 2 million women were unable to carry out major life activities or were limited in their ability to do so because of osteoporosis.

Searching for Answers

Traditionally, medical research has not focused on women's response to treatment or preventative approaches to chronic disease. We do know that women and men respond differently to certain treatments, including some used for heart disease, the No. 1 killer of women in the United States.

Researchers hope to enroll 164,500 women in the study sponsored by the National Institutes of Health. About 100,000 of these women will participate in an observational study that looks at the relationship between lifestyle, health, risk factors and disease.

The study will also help to clear up conflicting results of previous preventative studies about nutrition and hormone therapy. WHI will provide, for example, definitive answers about the use of hormones in preventing heart disease.

To help get these answers, large numbers of women are being asked to join the study for eight years or more.

WHI is open to all women over 50, especially women in their 60s and 70s, and African American, Hispanic, Native American and Asian American women.

Change Your Toothbrush During Cough, Cold Season

News USA

(NU) - How often do you replace your toothbrush?

The right answer to the question might help you stay healthier during cold and flu season.

While the American Dental Association says you should replace your toothbrush every three to four months, most people buy fewer than two toothbrushes each year and are usually reluctant to replace them more often.

Independent laboratory studies show that bacteria can survive outside the body on toothbrush bristles. Toothbrushes are often kept in a humid bathroom near others, so there's a potential for germs to spread quickly.

If you want to help stop the spread of a cold or a virus, the first place to look is in the bathroom. Here are some tips from Oral-B Laboratories, maker of the new Advantage toothbrush with micro-textured bristles, as well as other oral care products:

- When you have a cold, don't use the same toothpaste tube as the rest of the family. It can spread germs from one toothbrush to another. Make sure you have your own tube and that family members know about it.
- Don't forget to brush your tongue and the roof of your mouth.

It will help freshen breath and clean your mouth by removing bacteria.

• After brushing, soak your toothbrush in an antibacterial mouth rinse for approximately 20 minutes. Then hang it to dry, making sure it's not touching anyone else's toothbrush.

• When your cold is gone, replace your toothbrush with a new one to avoid re-infecting yourself with lingering bacteria from your old toothbrush.

• Supervise your children when they brush their teeth. Sometimes children have a tendency to fool around and they may let their toothbrushes make contact with unclean surfaces.

Cold-Fighting Tips

(NU) - Some more helpful tips for fighting the germs that cause colds:

- Wash your hands often.
- Cover your mouth when you sneeze or cough.
- Eat a nutritious, well-balanced diet.
- Get plenty of rest.
- Use separate glasses, dishes, eating utensils and towels for each family member.

National Kidney Foundation Urges Americans to Learn the Early Warning Signs of Kidney Disease

Contact: Cheryl Miller, National Kidney Foundation of Maine
207-772-7270

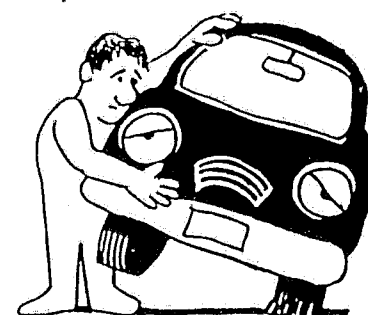

Kidney disease may often be silent for many years, until it has reached an advanced state. "That is why it is important to make sure your doctor includes tests of your kidney function in your annual physical," said Cheryl Miller, Executive Director of the National Kidney Foundation of Maine. Two simple blood tests can help determine if your kidneys are functioning normally. These are called blood-urea-nitrogen, or BUN for short, and serum creatinine level. These measure the levels in your blood of waste substances that are normally eliminated from your body by the kidneys. However, when your kidneys are not working as well as they should, these wastes may build up in your blood.

Other Possible Warning Signs Are:

- Swelling of hands and feet and the area around your eyes.
- Pain in your lower back.
- Blood in the urine (although you may not be able to see it without a microscope)
- Pain or burning when you urinate
- High Blood Pressure

Some of these signs cannot be detected without tests done by your doctor. For example, your blood pressure can be elevated without causing any symptoms at all. And uncontrolled blood pressure is a leading cause of kidney disease. Diabetes, or elevated blood sugar, is another leading cause of kidney disease. However, when these diseases are detected and controlled with treatment, the risk of kidney disease and other complications is greatly reduced. The National Kidney Foundation of Maine is dedicated to preventing kidney disease and urinary tract diseases, improving the health and well-being of individuals and families affected by these diseases and increasing the availability of all organs for transplantation. For more information about the kidneys and kidney disease contact the National Kidney Foundation of Maine at 207-772-7270.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest member: Wolfe Cove Inn, Poland, Rose Aikman, owner.

All members and friends are invited to Business After Hours on Monday, March 31, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Crescent Park School. Refreshments will be served and tours of the facility will be offered. This is a wonderful opportunity to visit this wonderful community resource.

The chamber is accepting nominations for several awards to be presented at the 28th Annual Bethel Area Chamber Awards Dinner, to be held on Friday, May 9, at the Summit Hotel. Anyone may submit names of deserving community volunteers for the Henry H. Hastings Citizenship Award, the Lifetime Achievement Award (formerly the Senior Citizen Award) or the Business of the Year Award. Employers are encouraged to nominate a deserving employee for one of five Employee of the Year awards in: Hospitality, Service and Retail, Wood Products, Ski Services and Education. Forms for nomination are available at the chamber office or by calling 824-2282.

Many thanks to all those businesses and individuals who supported the fifth Annual Bethel Area Mountain Madness Alpine Derby.

All are welcome to attend a Legislative Breakfast scheduled for Friday, April 4, from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at The Loft Restaurant. Peter Gore and Chris Hall from the Maine Chamber and Business Alliance will share with us the many pieces of legislation that are being considered this session that will affect business, including many worker's comp bills and several taxation bills. Rep. Al Barth and Sen. Norm Ferguson will also be present to share with us their opinions on the issues. The cost for the breakfast is $8.50 per person and advance registration needs to be done by calling the chamber office at 824-2282 by April 2.

SCORE WORKSHOPS

The Oxford Hills SCORE Chapter has scheduled another series of workshops in business planning, cash flow projections and financing a small business.

The workshops will be presented jointly by members of SCORE, Community Concepts, and the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments in three sessions, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Norway Town Hall, 26 Danforth Street, Norway, as follows: "Preparing the Business Plan," Thursday, April 17; "Cash Flow Projection," Wednesday, April 23; and "Financing a Small Business," Wednesday, April 30.

The workshops have been structured to provide valuable information and assistance in writing a business plan, projecting cash flow, developing financial statements and obtaining financing for a new business.

The total cost for the three workshops is $40 per participant (includes spouse and one partner if a family business or partnership).

Participation is limited to 20 persons. To reserve space call the SCORE office (743-0499) 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

TELSTAR PLAYERS—The drama club of Telstar High School will put on two short plays Friday and Saturday evening at the Helen Berry Auditorium. Titled "French Toast" and "Drive-in," they will be performed at 7 p.m. each night. Shown above (seated) are Shanna Walker (left) and Tatum Rosenberg, who were recently named to the All-Festival Cast at the Division II State Drama Festival. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Marionette Carnival

Beautiful, original, hand-carved Marionettes that move with a flow that defies their wooden origin characterize the work of Dan Butterworth.

Butterworth's "Carnival" will perform on Saturday, March 29, at 7 p.m. at the Summit Hotel at Sunday River Ski Resort as part of the Black Diamond Family Entertainment Series.

"Carnival" takes audiences back to the golden age of traveling carnivals and circuses of the 19th century when the Victorian ideals of detail, magic and special effects were carried to a new, bright grandeur. A cigar-chomping barker takes the audience on a whirlwind tour of "carny" acts including comic singers, clowns, acrobats, caged monsters and dancers.

Dan Butterworth and His Marionettes is a performance of dancing marionettes including mime, masks and modern dance with music from around the world including selections from classical, jazz and rock and roll. The characters dance and cavort on the beautifully decorated Victorian stage, fly through the air and even venture out into the audience -- landing on heads and curling up on laps.

Tickets for this family event are $6 for children (12 and under) and $8 for adults in advance or $8 and $10 at the door. Tickets may be purchased on-mountain at the Welcome Center, the Snow Cap Inn and the Summit Hotel or at Preb's Pharmacy in Bethel.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

March 15 was the 78th anniversary of the date of the Paris Caucus in France which was the birth of The American Legion, formed to help the widows and children of the comrades these veterans of World War I were leaving behind when they would return after that war. On Thursday, March 20, members of Jackson-Silver Auxiliary gave a birthday party for the Post to commemorate that anniversary.

Leah Deegan and her kitchen crew had prepared a bountiful dinner of corned beef, cabbage and all the traditional vegetables. This was topped off with ice cream and a beautiful cake made by member Sally Smith.

Commander Earl Tyler introduced guests Vito DeFilipp, past national vice commander, Eastern Division; Ed Roach, past Dept. commander and now Dept. finance officer; Chick Cicciotti, past national vice commander, Eastern Division; Larry Dearborn, Dept. historian, who was running all over taking pictures; Dan Harrison, member of several Department committees; Leland Merchant, county commander; Stanley Martell, Dept. adjutant of the sons of the legion (SAL); and David Sanborn, commander of Rumford Post 24, hoping to be the next Dept. historian. Mr. Tyler is also a member of the Dept. finance committee.

Auxiliary President Martha Stowell, who is also a member of the Dept. Education Committee, introduced a surprise guest, Dept. Pres. Heather Beasley; also, Past National Vice President, Eastern Division, Jeri Greenwell, current National Children and Youth Committee chairman; Past Dept. Pres. Fannie Cummings, who will be 95 in July; members of Dept. committees, Gisella Dearborn, Evanna Davis, Sylvia Dunham, and Olive Risko. Also at the head table was Honor Dept. Junior Pres. Jamie Johnson.

After brief remarks by some of the guests, the Post and Unit broke for their meetings.

At their meeting, the Unit voted an annual contribution to the Greenwood Recreation Committee for upkeep of their facilities and a contribution to the Color Guard of Rockland Unit 1 to attend the National Convention for the competition and also for taking part in the installation of the next national commander, Tony Jordan of Wiscasset.

A pair of life-size and life-like dolls, made and presented to the Unit by member Carolyn Johnson, were shown and will be used for raffles a little later.

The next meeting of Post and Unit will be April 3 and the County Council will meet at Locke Mills on April 15 for the annual installation of officers. There will be a tea at the Dixfield Unit on April 13 for the delegates and alternates who have been chosen to attend Girls State in June. Their parents are urged to attend also, as are past delegates who can pass along information and memories to the new ones.

April 8 is the date when the monthly "Musical Supper" will resume at the Locke Mills hall, starting at 5:30 p.m. with a meal of various casseroles and beans. The Richard Felt band will furnish music for dancing after the supper.

BETHEL SENIORS

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met March 12 at the Locke Mills American Legion hall with 76 in attendance.

President Helen Saunders conducted the business meeting and introduced Anita Wiley of the Western Area Agency on Aging and two representatives of Community Concepts. They explained the many programs and services available to senior citizens in the area, passed around sign-up sheets for presentation to the town Budget Committee, and discussed a volunteer transportation program.

Reports were given by Colleen Boyd, treasurer; Muriel Faudi, Sunshine Committee; and Rudy Royer on the silver saver jars.

The president reported that six members had passed away in the past month: Freda Robinson, Frances Bennett, Edwin Brown, Jason Smith, Norton "Wimp" Cross and Louise Whitman. On the sick list were Barbara Wheeler, Marie Witter, Grace Morrill, Josephine Kendall, Camilla Everett and Alfred Merrill.

Jane Hosterman told some stories and outlined details of the upcoming trip to the Flower Show in Portland on Friday, March 14.

The next meeting will be April 9 at the North Waterford Church. Cost of dinner will be $6.

Prizes were won by Wilma Gorman and Dr. Hersey.

Birthdays celebrated were Iva Abraham, Alberta Angevine, Muriel Butters, Ethelyn Caillouet, Lyndell Carter, Polly Davis, Geraldine Howe, Mildred Jackson, Mary Keniston, Linwood Machia, Mama McGinniss, Elizabeth Morse, Lillian Perkins, Alta Smith,

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

I have a correction and an apology to make to the taxpayers this week. First a little background, I have heard grumbling from taxpayers in Bethel for years about the inequities in Bethel's personal property assessing habits. To their great credit, the Board of Assessors decided to address this difficult issue this year. The first step is the distribution of the personal property declaration form. The declaration of personal property for the purpose of taxation is required by law and has not changed. In Bethel, it is simply that the town has not issued the form in the last decade.

In order to help people to properly declare their taxable property, Assessors' Clerk Christen Mason spoke to the Maine Municipal Association legal services division. Here is where the error occurred. The MMA attorney referred her to a list in the Assessors' Manual which summarizes taxable personal property. She relied on that list, and even published it in the Citizen for the taxpayers' information and instruction.

Unfortunately (or happily, if looked at from another point of view), the exemptions from taxation of personal property were expanded by law in 1995, for application beginning in tax year starting April 1, 1997, to include "all items of individually owned personal property except (1) items used for industrial or commercial purposes; and (2) vehicles and camp trailers as defined in section 1481 not subject to an excise tax."

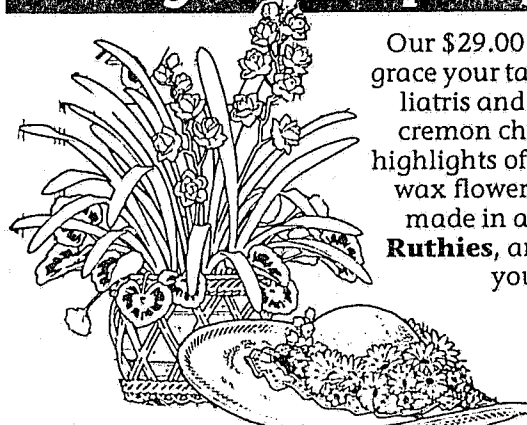

So, concurrent with Bethel's new resolve to fairly and comprehensively assess personal property comes the state's new law that personal property which is not used for commercial or industrial purposes is exempt from taxation.

I am very sorry for the confusion and discomfort this has undoubtedly caused. I hope with this clarification that people who need to submit personal property declarations can do so with confidence that they will be assessed fairly and accurately. By the way, if you have no personal property to declare for tax purposes, simply throw the form away in your handy recycling box.

Finally, our thanks to Norm Clanton for pointing out the law amendment.

Madeleine Henley
Town Manager

HOME HEATING ASSISTANCE

Appointments are presently available for people who have not applied for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP). This is for residents of Androscoggin and Oxford counties only. People who applied for HEAP after Oct. 1, 1996, need not call or come in.

It is necessary to have an appointment to apply. Appointments can be made by calling the nearest office. Applicants will be advised on what to bring with them when they apply. Those who live in subsidized housing should tell the receptionist when they call for an appointment. If there are several people in a rural area who call for appointments and some have transportation problems, the program staff will try to accommodate these needs and possibly take applications in that area. Home visits are still available for the homebound.

The average household benefit this year is about $300.

When applying for HEAP, the information gathered is also used for the Electric Lifeline Program (ELP) and the Telephone Lifeline Program (TLP). The ELP program may assist those eligible with Central Maine Power bills. The TLP program provides a credit on the monthly telephone rate to those eligible. If an eligible person does not have a telephone, the program will provide a reduced installation rate and the monthly credit.

Call the nearest Community Concepts' office for an appointment: Auburn, 795-4065; Rumford, 364-3721; and South Paris, 743-7716.

No chimney? No problem.

Here's a gas water heater with a built-in solution to chimney problems. John Wood has developed one which vents outside the house.

This innovative, powervent water heater is designed around a failsafe control system to protect homeowners from any potential hazards. With a non-hazardous 24-volt control, completely enclosed wires, and a termination device that will not freeze shut or stick open, it's built for safety.

So don't let the lack of a chimney keep you out in the cold. Talk to us about the John Wood powervent gas water heater.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Our Lenten season is quickly coming to an end. Yes, Easter begins this coming Thursday, Holy Thursday. We begin on that night the celebration of the Easter Triduum of the passion and resurrection of Jesus, the culmination of the entire liturgical year. In this festival, Jesus' saving work is commemorated by the church with the utmost solemnity. Through the liturgy of the Triduum, the church is intimately united with Jesus and shares in his passage from death to life.

In most of our churches the Paschal Triduum is the three-day season, the days counted sunset to sunset, from Holy Thursday evening through Easter Sunday evening. During these days, we keep one festival, our Passover, our Easter. We come together with all the people of our parish and in spirit with all Christians in every time and place. It is the Passover of the Lord!

For many people Easter is only one day, Easter Sunday. In my parish church I still wish my people a happy Easter on Mother's Day, the second Sunday of May. Easter is celebrated for fifty days not just one day. We are told that these fifty days of Easter are the highlight of the Christian year. It is a season for us to celebrate, rejoice and continue to spread the Good News of the resurrection of Jesus. Fifty days of celebrating and rejoicing in the new life of Jesus is something very special in our churches.

If someone walks into our churches during this seven-week period, will they realize it is still Easter? We should make every effort to show by our decorations that Easter is still being celebrated. The beautiful Easter symbols, the flowers, the water, the Easter Candle, all of these should be clear reminders to all that it is still Easter.

As we gather in our places of worship during this week we call "holy" let it be a special time for us. Let the joy of resurrection life be our motif for the Fifty Days of Easter. Let us take the time this week to reflect on the meaning of Holy Week and Easter. A new day is dawning and the light of Jesus who died and rose will reveal new things to us. The stone was rolled back and our old patterns of thinking can be changed. Jesus is our reason to live. Jesus is Our Way, Our Truth and Our Life.

The Rev. Lawrence J. Conley, Pastor,
Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church, Bethel, and Saint Catherine of Sienna Parish, Norway
